BRITAIN BANGS DOOR AGAINST INDIA

No More Negotiations For Settlement

BUT "BROAD INTENTIONS" OF CRIPPS PLAN STAND

Amery's Threat Against Wardha Plan Of Mass Movement

"THE BRITISH Government, while reiterating their resolve to give the fullest opportunity for the attainment by India of Complete Self-Government, cannot but solemnly warn all those who stand behind the policy adumbrated by the Congress Working Committee that the Government of India will not flinch from their duty to take every possible step to meet the situation", declared Mr. Amery in the Commons on Thursday.

NO NEGOTIATIONS

Replying to further questions suggesting "some deliberate open attempt to come to further discussions with India", the Secretary of State said: "We have done all in our power", and added: "I think Sir Stafford Cripps has already informed the House of the not inconsiderable amount of discussion which has taken place".

INDIA ISSUE IN COMMONS

LONDON, July 30.

The British Government's attitude to the threat of a "mass movement" in India by the Congress Party Working Committee was clearly defined in the Commons today by the Secretary of State, Mr. Leopold Amery.

CRIPPS' PROPOSALS

The purpose of the British Government with regard to the constitutional future of India was made clear in the draft declaration which Sir Stafford Cripps was authorised to offer on behalf of the British Government. It proved impossible to secure the support of the principal elements of India's national life for the specific proposal in that declaration and the draft was accordingly withdrawn. Nevertheless the British Government stand firmly by the broad intention of their offer.

The present demand of the Congress completely ignores this far-reaching offer and would, if conceded, bring about complete and abrupt dislocation of the vast and complicated machinery of the Government of India. This at a time when in Russia, China, Egypt and other theatres of war the situation calls for undivided energy, co-operation and concentration of the resources of all Allied powers.

THREAT TO CONGRESS

No greater disservice can be imagined and men of goodwill everywhere must refuse to envisage such a catastrophic development in one of the most vital theatres of war. The British Government, while reiterating their resolve to give the fullest opportunity for the attainment by India of complete self-Government, cannot but solemnly warn all those who stand behind the policy adumbrated by the Congress Working Committee that the Government of India will not flinch from their duty to take every possible step to meet the situation (this declaration was greeted with cheers). The United Nations have bent themselves to the task of fighting the menace which overhangs freedom and civilisation.

In this crisis and in the future after the war India has a great part to play and it is the earnest hope of the British Government that Indian people will lend no countenance to a movement fraught with such disastrous consequences, but will, on the contrary, throw their all into the struggle against the common enemies of mankind."

NO MORE NEGOTIATIONS

Mr. Ammon asked: "While recognising Mr. Amery's difficult position, would it not be better instead of conveying a half threat and despite perhaps little loss of face if the British Government were to make some deliberate open attempt to come to further discussions with India?"

Mr. Amery replied: "We have done all in our power."

Mr. Shinwell (Labour): "In view of the fact that the British Government's proposals were capable of modification and discussion would it not be better for the Government in the present critical situation to seek further approach in order that negotiations should be resumed and does Mr. Amery not appreciate that we have got sufficient on our plate without entering into a violent conflict with the people of India?"

Mr. Amery said: "I think Sir Stafford Cripps has already informed the House of the not inconsiderable amount of discussion which has taken place."

"BROAD" INTENTIONS REMAIN

Sir Herbert Williams (Conservative): "Does Mr. Amery not think that the Working Committee would be exceedingly disappointed if the British Army were withdrawn because there would be nobody left to protect them against the really fighting people of India?"

Mr. Locker Lampson (Conservative): "May I ask whether in no circumstances will Mr. Gandhi be arrested and given an additional opportunity of self-advertisement?"

Mr. Tom Driberg (Independent): "Would it not be possible to invite the United Nations to arbitrate?"

Miss Eleanor Rathbone (Independent): "Does Mr. Amery's reply mean, however, badly the Congress Party may behave during the war to impede our war effort, that all Cripps' proposals will still be open to them with dominant position which that would give them in India?"

In a general reply to these questions Mr. Amery said: "The broad intentions of the British Government remain the same irrespective of the immediate conduct of the Congress Party."

COMMUNIST PARTY

Mr. Sorensen asked if the announcement that the Indian Communist Party is now legally recognised has been accompanied by the release of all Communist prisoners and whether the Party will now be able to issue periodicals and newspapers.

Mr. Amery: "The Government of India and the Provincial Gov-

CHIANG AS INTERMEDIARY?

CHUNGKING, July 30. To-day's "Takungpao" says: "It is learned that diplomatic sources in Chungking are not adopting the outlook attitude towards Indian developments. There is constant exchange of communications between a certain Indian quarter and Chungking. Well informed sources opine that Chungking may become an important news centre."—Reuter.

ernments have already released a number of individuals associated with the Communist Party of India who desire to assist the war effort and will continue to deal with each case on its merits, including those members of the Communist Party who as such have been convicted by Criminal Courts of offences not involving violence. They have removed the ban on the Party's weekly and monthly publications, "National Front" and "New Age."

Mr. Sorensen then asked if there was any truth in the rumour that the "Daily Worker" was to be published in India.

BRITISH INTERESTS

Sir Alfred Knox asked if Mr. Amery could give an assurance that in any postwar arrangement for the future Government of India adequate arrangements would be made for a guarantee of British Commercial Interests.

Mr. Amery replied: "The British Government has made it clear in connection with the recent offer that a guarantee of special protection for British commercial interests in India would not be a condition for the acceptance of whatever constitution Indians might evolve after the war and that any such provisions would more appropriately be made for negotiation with the future Government of India."—Reuter.

EUROPEANS AS UNTOUCHABLES?

LONDON, July 30. Serious apprehension exists among the European community in India, following Sir Stafford Cripps' gallant but abortive attempt to secure agreement among Indians, declared Lord Craigavon in a debate in the House of Lords today regarding the future of Europeans in India.

After emphasising British work for Indian prosperity, Lord Craigavon said: "In Sir Stafford Cripps' conversations no question of safeguards and conditions of fair treatment of British interests were allowed to intrude. Europeans in India should be given the same right as other minorities from the danger of discrimination. Otherwise they may become a new class of untouchables. We have the choice of continuing the effort to buy appeasement in India by abandoning the rights and interests of our own people or trying to lay the foundations of India's future on broad equity, embracing everybody, even men of our own race."

Devonshire's Reply

The Under-Secretary, the Duke of Devonshire replying to the debate said, as Mr. Amery told the Commons to-day that the Government had made it clear that guarantee of special protection for British Commercial Interests in India would not be a condition of acceptance of any constitution and that such provision would properly be a matter for negotiation in future with the Government of India. That was not to say that the Government was or would be in future indifferent to those interests.

The Duke of Devonshire continued: "British Commercial Interests in the Dominions are a matter of vital concern to the Government in the United Kingdom but that concern was not expressed by safeguards and guarantees when the former British Colonies became self-governing dominions. In India, we have passed from the conception of tutelage to that of free and frank partnership. Guarantees and safeguards are incompatible with equal partnership."—Reuter.

The Duke of Devonshire concluding said: "I have not been able to give much positive assurance regarding the immensely important British community in India but I do not see how any future Government could be unmindful of the interests of that community."—Reuter.

BURMA LESSON FOR INDIA

Sardar On Congress Demand For Withdrawal Of Br. Power

AHMEDABAD, July 30. "The business that you are conducting is artificial, and the profits that you are making are not real," declared Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel addressing an open air meeting of merchants in the compound of the Maskati Cloth Market in pouring rain. He said that the rain were a foretaste of the coming difficulties which they would have to encounter.

After the occupation of Burma by the Japanese, the danger of the Japanese invasion of India had become imminent. In order that India might not succumb to the fate which had overtaken Burma, the Congress had demanded the withdrawal of the British power from India; so that they might fight the Japanese, or the Germans as free men, like the Russians and the Chinese. Indians were more interested in the defence of India than the Englishmen or the Americans. Indians wanted to defend India for themselves and not for others. They did not want India to be invaded and reconquered like Burma by foreigners. Mahatma Gandhi wanted first to fight with Government for freeing India from foreign exploitation, making it the homeland of the Indians.

Proceeding Sardar Patel said that the Viceroy had organised against the Congress National War Front. Originally it was declared to be free from politics, but by now it issued statements criticising the Congress.—A.P.

MAHATMA ON CRIPPS' BROADCAST

WARDHAGANJ, July 30. "After the incisive statement made by the Congress President followed by that of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru and the whole of the Indian press led by the 'Hindu', surely you do not want me to give any answer," said Mahatma Gandhi, when asked if he had any comment to make on Sir Stafford Cripps' recent broadcast to America.

Mahatma Gandhi is leaving for Bombay on August 2 to attend the meetings of the Working Committee and the A.I.C.C. It is understood that Mahatma Gandhi in talks with Congress workers hinted that the Working Committee's decisions to launch Civil Disobedience will apply also to the peoples of the Indian States.—A.P.

Bengal Contingent For A.I.C.C. Session

Besides A.I.C.C. members, invitation to attend the Session has been extended to office-bearers of the Bengal Provincial Congress Committee and to the Secretary of the Bengal Civil Protection Committee.

The President of the B.P.C.C., Mrs. Labanya Prabha Dutta, will be unable to attend the Session as in view of her indifferent health for sometime past, she has been advised complete rest by her medical attendants.—A.P.

BRITAIN STILL HOLDS KEY

China's Appeal To Win India's Friendliness By Negotiations

(By Special Cable) The Chungking "Central Daily News," in an editorial yesterday, says:—"In our editorial yesterday we explained how India's freedom is inseparable from Allied victory and how such victory depends on the stability of India. We expressed the hope that Britishers and Indians would reach an early settlement on a reasonable basis and the All-India Congress Committee would adopt a cautious attitude when meeting on August 7 to discuss the disobedience resolution. Our viewpoint is entirely based on consideration for an 'all out' anti-aggression war. That is why we hope for an early stabilization of the Indian situation and improvement in British-Indian relations so that the door to settlement may not be blocked."

Our Ally, Britain, still holds the key to the question of reconsideration by the Indian National Congress of its attitude. With equal frankness we would like to express our hopes to the British Government and people. "We recently discovered one optimistic factor in the Indian situation. Both Britain and India will not permit their enemy, a partner of the Axis, to encroach upon India with all his brutality. On the contrary, they are willing to resist the enemy by force. This identity of viewpoint has been expressed by both sides."

Nothing now remains to prevent a frank discussion of other problems and their settlement. It is an undeniable fact that at present British-Indian relations are very tense and feelings have run high. If this state of affairs is allowed to continue, it will injure the interests not only of Britain and India, but also of other anti-aggression nations. Nothing more is imperative than to improve the feelings and restore the sense of proportion.

We hope that before the All-India Congress Committee meets next month, the British Government would show far-sighted statesmanship and announce its readiness to resume negotiations. It is important for the Indian people to find a new hope amidst depression and know that a proper settlement and freedom are not beyond reach.

Once the situation ceases worsening, our sincere counsel to India not to resort to the disobedience movement may have a chance of acceptance.

We know that Britain is a most realistic nation, her policies are customarily liberal and enlightened and her statesmen are both broadminded and far-sighted. In this war against might, Britain is playing the principal part. The sole aim of the United Nations is to defeat the aggressor powers and secure freedom for mankind. Therefore, the necessary way must be found to relieve the tension in British-Indian relations and make a reasonable settlement possible. For this reason, we hope, that the disobedience movement resolution would not be endorsed by the All-India Congress Committee. We have often heard British friends say that Britain's attitude 'vis a vis' the Indian problem is rather to restore India to her complete freedom than to allow Axis brigands to set foot on Indian soil. If the British Government in this makes a statement announcing its readiness to resume negotiations, we believe this will change Indians' feelings from antipathy to friendliness and enable them to mobilise spiritual and material strength to resist the Axis aggression, resulting in a blessing not only to Britain and India, but also to the other United Nations.

Should one side launch the disobedience movement and the other side resort to forcible measures of repression, there would be enacted a tragedy most detrimental to the United Nations, and from it our enemies would derive the greatest satisfaction.

In offering these words of advice to Britain in a spirit of sincerity we have expressed the opinion held by the people of one of the United Nations. Meanwhile, to the people of India we wish to say that in the course of their fight for freedom they will not forget their sacred duty to participate in the anti-aggression war and strive for the freedom of mankind.—A.P.

Women War Workers Demand Second Front

Deputation To Commons And Premier Pledges Full Support In Factories

LONDON, July 30. A DEPUTATION claiming to represent thousands of London women war workers, all with husbands, sons, brothers or sweethearts serving in the forces, went to the House of Commons and 10 Downing Street to-day to appeal for a Second Front. They presented a pledge signed by them at a London meeting promising to give full support in factories.—Reuter.

NO SECRET SESSION ON SECOND FRONT

Cripps States Case For Government

LONDON, July 30. The need for a secret session of Parliament before summer adjournment to discuss the Second Front was urged in the House of Commons today. The Leader of the House Sir Stafford Cripps replied "Whatever the military intentions of Government may be, they would be unable to state them even in a secret session."

AIR ATTACK ON SAARBRUCKEN

R. A. F. Bomb Licata And Sicily

LONDON, July 30. A heavy and concentrated attack was made by the R.A.F. on Saarbrücken last night. It is officially announced. An Air Ministry 'communiqué' says that Saarbrücken was the main objective of a strong force of our bombers last night. The attack was heavy and concentrated, and preliminary reports indicate that much damage was done. Nine of our aircraft are missing.

Scare In German Cities

ISTANBUL.—Fear of the R.A.F. is terrorising the population of big German cities, according to information from Germany reaching Free French quarters here. A traveller who recently arrived from Hamburg, described the destruction caused by a single 4,000 pound bomb, which he said, literally blasted an entire block of important buildings, including the observatory and S.S. barracks. In the occupied countries, the opening of a second front is impatiently awaited. Other travellers who recently arrived from Germany report a considerable influx of German reinforcements moving from the west to the Russian front during the whole of last month. In Germany itself, it was stated, only a few weak reserves remain.—Reuter.

SIR T. GREGORY GETS EXTENSION

Despite Central Assembly's Censure

(From Our Correspondent). NEW DELHI, July 30. The habit of giving extensions of service to officers brought on short term contracts in the Government of India is growing. It is said that Sir Thomas Gregory, who is now in England with the Finance Member, Sir Jeremy Raisman, has been given a further extension, according to which his term will only expire four years hence. Even at the time when Sir Thomas Gregory was appointed, there were strong protests in the country, for there were eminent Indians available for the post, like Dr. Matthal and others. A censure motion was also passed in the Assembly.

It was at least expected that when Sir Thomas Gregory's term was over, an Indian would be appointed, but even this hope has now been falsified. The Government of India cannot say that there are not Indians available in the country suitable for this post. When officers are appointed on short term contracts it is expected that before their term expires they will train up suitable Indians to take their places, but if repeated extensions are given, they practically become permanent appointments. A Deputy Economic Adviser has, however, been appointed in the person of Mr. N. V. Joshi.

Br. Malicious Eyewash To U. S. Armymen In India—Discredited

(From Our Correspondent). NEW DELHI, July 27. In the course of press conference, to-day which the American Army Public Relations Officers addressed it was revealed they had no official knowledge of the appointment by Government of India of Sir Evelyn Wrench as American Relations Officer. When asked, why they should not have an Indian for promoting better understanding between Indians and Americans, they welcomed the idea and said "It would be great indeed." They also welcomed the suggestion that lectures by Indian leaders should be arranged for the newly arrived Americans. When one correspondent called their attention to the report that high British officers had, at a recent function, advised American officers to read "Mother India". The American Press Relations Officer expressed surprise and replied "I would ask them not to read it. I have read it. Its terrible."

HEED CHINA'S ADVICE

Mr. Amery's replies to questions in the House of Commons with regard to India suggest that the British Government are still obdurate. But it is difficult to believe that his replies are the last word on the subject. The British Government, he said, "while reiterating their resolve to give the fullest opportunity for the attainment by India of complete self-government, cannot but solemnly warn all those who stand behind the policy adumbrated by the Congress Working Committee that the Government of India will not flinch from their duty to take every possible step to meet the situation. That Government will do everything possible to cope with the Congress campaign goes without saying. But the more pertinent question which must not be evaded is whether the Government cannot avert the campaign itself. Replying to a question if Government would not resume negotiations with the Congress, Mr. Amery said that "they have already done all in their power and that Sir Stafford Cripps had already informed the House of the 'not inconsiderable amount of discussion' which had taken place. We hope it is not merely wishful thinking to infer from these words that Government have not banged the door against negotiations. Even if they have done so for the time being, they will have long to change their mind. Sheer force of circumstances will induce them to do that even if spontaneous wiser counsels do not prevail in time. It will be a grievous blunder for either side to refuse to negotiate so long as there is any prospect of a settlement.

China Speaks Out

In this connection the earnest advice given to Britain by the "Central Daily News" of Chungking is both wise and timely. This paper recognises quite correctly any critic of the Congress that "should one side launch the disobedience movement and the other side resort to forcible measures of repression, there would be enacted a tragedy detrimental to the United Nations and from it our enemies would derive the greatest satisfaction." But it believes at the same time that it is possible for the key to avert the Congress campaign and to bring it to a halt. It is her duty to do so for her own sake and for the sake of the United Nations. With commendable frankness it says that "Britain still holds the key to the question of reconversion by the Indian National Congress of its attitude." In clear emphatic terms it says:

We hope that before the All-India Congress meets next month, the British Government would show far-sighted statesmanship and announce its readiness to resume negotiations. It is important for the Indian people to find a new hope amidst depression and know that a proper settlement and freedom are not beyond reach. If the British Government in this makes a statement announcing its readiness to resume negotiations, we believe this will change Indian feelings from antipathy to friendliness and enable them to mobilise spiritual and material strength to resist the Axis aggression, resulting in a blessing not only to Britain and India, but also the other United Nations.

The paper adds that "in offering these words of advice to Britain in a spirit of sincerity" it has "expressed the opinion held by the people of one of the United Nations." The advice is not only sincere but also eminently sound.

Wide-spread Demand

It need hardly be added that the advice of the "Central Daily News" reflects the mind of India also. The Congress President and Gandhi have made it clear enough that the door is still open for 'bona fide' negotiations on the basis of immediate restoration of power to India. In his latest interview given to the United Press, Gandhi only insists that a mere guarantee about the future is not enough and that "present hour is a golden hour, the need of the hour." And this is demanded "not because of distrust about future delivery but because India as an independent power wants to play, if it is at all possible, a decisive part in favour of the Allies." Important sections in Britain and America also favour negotiations with Congress. We have to see how in a 'straw' vote organised in England a few days ago by the India League, 100,000 British voters were asked the pointed question: "Are you in favour of independence being recognised immediately by the British Government with Indian national leaders on the basis of recognition of India's Independence and Indian National Government?" The result was a resounding 73 per cent of the ballot papers that returned to the League Office, 75 per cent voted in the affirmative. "Manchester Guardian" too, has strongly pleaded for further negotiations. Finally, only the other day the "New Republic" of America suggested that "a new formula should be hammered out in further negotiations" and added: "No one can possibly oppose negotiations unless he wants British rule continued in this country, and anyone who wants that has no business of pretending to fight against the side of democracy." It is difficult to believe that this widespread and insistent demand for further negotiations will go unheeded by Britain. It is in her own interest to listen to the earnest advice of China.

The City Beautiful

In his interesting address to the Institute of Indian Architects last week Mr. Yusuf Meharry, the Mayor of Bombay, discussed his conception of city-beautiful and his view-point of the role of the architect in its evolution. He drew a picture of the Bombay of tomorrow in which the slums would be non-existent, the buildings would be of the finest designs and in which municipal art theatres, lovely fountains, open spaces for recreation, baths and well-placed statues would be provided. Civic design is indisputably an artistic problem and presupposes orderly dispositions of the civic and artistic amenities in a given area. He emphasises that an artistic amenity like a theatre or an art-gallery is an essential civic necessity. It remains now with the Corporation, over which he presides, to proceed with the resolution about a municipal theatre and public hall adopted by it as far back as 8-12-1938 and to inaugurate an era of providing the artistic and cultural amenities in the city.

Beauty should be the hall-mark of a city if it is artistically designed—an ideal which expects, for its realisation, maximum contributions to civic organisation by the creative architects and artists. Mr. Meharry's view, that Bombay has very little of architecture to boast of, will sound enigmatic in view of the Indian Institute of Architects' headquarters having been in the city and the constructional activities being carried on on an extensive scale, but it will be endorsed by everyone who has a vigilant eye on the current trends of architecture in the country. Synthesis of beauty and utility was the predominant note of the architectural traditions of India. Today utility outweighs beauty and rank commercialism undermines the values of art, culture and refinement. The remark made by Mr. Meharry, that the architect should play the role more of an artist than that of an engineer, carries deep significance and suggests a corrective for the architectural vagaries of the day. Mr. Meharry's address appealed to the architects to cease hankering after the western modes and to revive, instead, the beauty of Indian architecture; but the stock argument of some of the architects in denunciation of their architectural autocracy is that the Indian traditions are inadequate and ill-suited to meet the requirements and conditions of the modern times. The movement for the reconstruction of the city, which was successfully launched during the times of Wittet and Cable, suddenly came to a standstill. What exigencies—social or economic—have warranted complete repudiation of the Indian traditions and have sanctioned revolution labelled under the fascinating label of renaissance is difficult to understand.

The Indian Institute of Architects has, within the short period of its formation, achieved creditable progress. It has secured the privilege of affiliation to the Royal Institute of British Architects and of the recognition of the training imparted in the School of Architecture, Bombay, to the extent of full exemption from the examinations of that body. Do these privileges imply stipulation on the part of the Indian Institute to discard the Indian traditions as a basis of modern architecture? If the reply be in the positive, we cannot refrain from observing that "complete surrender" is too high a price for the glittering letters of the qualifications and we would recommend to the Institute to assert its individuality by laying emphasis on the indigenous art-traditions in the curriculum of architectural education and to dictate its own terms to the Royal Institute of British Architects if the privileges granted by it happen to be conditional. The sole objective of the architectural profession should be to develop a national architecture and not to expose the country to the dangers of experiments with the forms which do not reflect the spirit of India's art-traditions.

Frankly Speaking

Preliminaries?

During the last three or four days the Admiralty has been reporting daily brushes between offensive minded light British patrols and enemy convoys and units of the German occupied coast of Western Europe. In this period British naval craft have accounted for two or three supply ships, three or four trawlers and an E-boat or two. And all without any serious damage to any one of them. This is a gratifying score. But are these operations merely accidental or do they indicate a deliberate intensification of British naval activities in the Channel? And in the latter case can they, taken in conjunction with round the dock fighter sweeps—in which Army Co-operation Command "Mustangs" are also, significantly being employed—be interpreted as preliminary to any 'diversion' on the continent? In this connection it is interesting to note that the demand for the immediate establishment of a Second Front is now being widely discussed on both sides of the Atlantic. Newspaper comments are of necessity cautious and rather inclined to apologise. But it is not without significance that the London "Times" should, even though vaguely and tentatively, agree with its necessity.

Buna Situation

After the Japanese landing in Gona Buna, neither side has lost much time in establishing contact with the other. The Japanese, apparently determined to push their landing at any cost, pushed on to take a long distance en route to Port Moresby. But their advance units were caught at Kokoda and driven back by Allied patrols. This is a minor success, but it is not insignificant. Allied control of Kokoda and the mountain range is of great strategic importance making any enemy advance a difficult task. Moreover, the brush shows that the Allies are ready to meet a land challenge to Port Moresby. As we pointed out a few days ago, the Japanese force that landed at Buna is not strong enough to constitute a serious threat to Port Moresby. The garrison of which must have been very considerably reinforced during the last few months. And apparently the enemy force has not only been reinforced but is actually being weakened. General MacArthur's "communiqué" as well as less restrained press reports all show that Allied aircraft, particularly American dive bombers, have been incessantly bombing and shooting up Japanese supplies installations and personnel. If General MacArthur maintains his air superiority and there is no reason why he should not, he ought not only to defeat any threat to Port Moresby but even turn the tables on the enemy.

R. A. F. Warns Nazis

Air Marshal Harris, Chief of Britain's bomber Command, evidently does not want the R. A. F. to be a silent service concerned with the eloquence of deeds rather than of words. He must needs talk, indeed, warn and threaten the enemy. His message broadcast to Germany yesterday, however, be quite justifiable were it supported more completely and convincingly by action. It is undeniable that for several months past the R. A. F. has been displaying what is called the offensive spirit. At the same time it must also be admitted that during the three months since Mr. Churchill and Marshal Harris announced the beginning of a big campaign only four German objectives have been dealt with with something like the promised results, namely, Cologne, the Ruhr or rather Duisburg, Bremen and Hamburg. At this rate the R. A. F. can make no greater impression on Germany and the course of the war than did the Luftwaffe by " Coventrifying " a number of important British towns or ports in 1940.

How Soon?

But there is a difference. The R. A. F., stronger than the Luftwaffe and growing increasingly more powerful, has, with the additional assistance of a powerful American Air Force, the possibility of which the Luftwaffe never enjoyed and of which Air Marshal Harris solemnly warns Germany. But these possibilities have yet to go beyond proving their existence. R. A. F. bomber strength has shown itself capable of carrying out extremely heavy raids over Germany in the night and then bombing enemy centres up to Danzig in broad daylight. The fighters have also just extended their activities in a significant manner. So far their work constituted "sweeps" by day and "intruder" operations by night. The other day they extended their activities to offensive sweeps by night when they achieved good results against railways around Paris and the industrial areas of Lille. All this proves the possibilities. But when will they materialise? Air Marshal Harris may talk of the enemy having "no chance" and may promise him that "soon we shall be coming every night and every day—we and the Americans." But how soon? That is the one relevant problem. It must be recognised that during the forty-eight hours

Germans Cross Don East Of Rostov

FEROCIOUS BATTLE RAGING AT RIVER BEND

SUCCESSFUL SOVIET COUNTER-ATTACK ON VORONEZH FRONT

MOSCOW, July 30.

The Germans have crossed the Don East Of Rostov, reports the "Red Star", at a heavy cost in casualties. They are now pressing forward on the left bank in face of strong Soviet resistance. Soviet positions in the region of Bataisk are being very heavily bombed from air.

FEROCIOUS FIGHTING

The "Red Star" says: "Large tank forces are participating in these attacks and fighting is increasing rapidly." The struggle for possession for the right bank of the Don south-east of Kletskaia is on. Furious fighting is raging over the thirty to fifty miles front and in great depth. Artillery and tanks, infantry and cavalry are being thrown into action in large numbers on the sunken plains of the Don bend. Fleets of planes roar overhead unceasingly.

The "Red Star" frontline correspondent says: "Fighting on the right bank of the Don, territory and populated points have been changing hands many times. Enemy wants at all costs to get complete possession of the right bank of the river in order to secure a base for his next jump forward."

Battle Of Don Bend

Particularly fierce fighting has developed in the last few days in the bend of the Don, territory and populated points have been changing hands many times. The "Pravda" war correspondent says: "The German objective is to break through our defences and reach the Don river in one of its most important stretches," he says. Kletskaia, south-west of which, Moscow reports, heavy battles, lies on the right bank of the northern Don bend, 75 miles as the crow flies north-west of Stalingrad and 125 miles north-east of Tsimlianskaya. The Germans are meeting with strong resistance.

The "Pravda" says:—"Fighting in the Don bend area has been going on for at least five days during which one Russian Guards unit destroyed 123 German tanks. The Don bend country offers no natural obstacles and makes anti-tank defence very difficult. In one sector German tanks did manage to wedge themselves into Russian defence. The German look-out posts yesterday were up out off from contact with tanks by a heavy curtain artillery fire.

The tanks were forced to turn back and the Germans paid dearly for their unsuccessful attempts to break through.

The Germans are still bringing up troops to the southern Don from other fronts. Five German counter-attacks in different sectors of the Voronezh Front—in the north in the town region and in the south-east—were repulsed yesterday. They were all repulsed with heavy losses to the Germans who everywhere had withdrawn to original positions.

Soviet troops advanced in a number of sectors in the Voronezh area in the face of stubborn German resistance, says a supplement to the Soviet midday communique today.

The supplement adds: "Heavy fighting is going on in the Bataisk area. The enemy made a number of attacks and advanced in a number of sectors. Our troops near one inhabited locality held the enemy onslaught for the whole day. Nineteen enemy tanks and 900 enemy dead remained on the battle field.

Successful Counter-Attacks

In the region south of Kletskaia fierce fighting with enemy tanks and infantry continued. All enemy attempts to breach our positions failed.

The Soviet Air Force in the area of Tsimlianskaya repeatedly struck at the enemy troops who had crossed to the south bank of the Don. After this bombing, our tank and infantry made a number of successful counter-attacks annihilating 700 of the enemy. In some sectors of the Tsimlianskaya area, the enemy concentrated large forces and attempted to break through our defences. Soviet troops are repelling the enemy attack and since Air Marshal Harris spoke he has been over Germany and German occupied Europe day and night. But it is yet too early to regard these visits as heralding the materialisation of his promise.

grinding down his manpower and equipment."

For Soviet Fronts

The military correspondent of the Soviet News Agency says that six more German divisions had been despatched from France to the Eastern Front in the last few days.

Submarine Clash

The midges Soviet submarine "Malutka" has sunk a German U-boat in the Arctic waters. For three hours the two submarines circled round each other below water like two blind hungry sharks. Finally a torpedo from the Soviet submarine guided only by acoustic instruments directing its shooting but the enemy vessel out of action.—Reuter.

REJECT WARDHA PLAN, CALLS OUT MASANI

Commends Sapru Way To Congress

BOMBAY, July 30. "If the Congress move is intended to concert measures for the more effective defence of India in co-operation with the Allies, there is any need for sabre-rattling and ultimatums of open revolt," is this not rather an occasion for consultations and conferences, as suggested by Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, asks Mr. R. P. Masani, broadcasting to-night from the Bombay station of the All-India Radio.

Mr. Masani adds that if a concerted effort were made to close up our ranks, to arrive at a settlement for the period of the war to devise ways and means of mobilising the will and the effort of the people to resist aggression and to frame a constitution for the future, the goal of freedom could be reached much sooner than by methods suggested in the Congress resolution.

Mr. Masani urges the All-India Congress Committee that should refuse to accept the Working Committee's decision and see whether it cannot still suggest ways and means of Congress co-operation with Government.

Pointing out that frustration of the hope of the Congress to have the Indian problem solved as it desired, accounts for what appears to be a ruinous resolution, Mr. Masani goes on to say, "It is India's misfortune that when its leaders, committed to the policy of constitutional agitation, knock at England's door for reforms long overdue, the authorities of the day mishandled the situation and when at last the authorities guarantee that immediately after the war India shall have the right to frame a constitution for governing herself and the right also to go out or stay in the British Commonwealth of Nations as she desires, the Congress takes up an irrevocable attitude, positively detrimental to the interests of the country and lowering the national organisation in the estimation of the world.—A. Stalin's "Order Of The Day"

LONDON, July 30.

In an inspiring Order of the Day, M. Stalin says that every soldier and officer must stand and fight to victory or death. The Order of the day is published in the Soviet newspaper "Red Star" which adds: "Not one set back. Such is the demand of our Defence Commissar and Military Leader Comrade Stalin. The execution of this task means the preservation of our country from destruction by the hated enemy and the guarantee of victory."—Reuter.

NEW DELHI, July 30. In consequence, the Government of India have agreed to the Indian Purchasing Mission renaming itself the Indian Supply Mission. This does not, of course, imply any change in functions.

The British Purchasing Mission in the United States of America has also recently changed its name to the British Ministry of Supply Mission.—A. P.

TÊTE-À-TÊTE

WITHOUT COMMENT

MOSCOW, July 29.

In the last two months, Hitler has transferred 14 infantry divisions and two tank divisions from France to the Russian Front, says the "Red Star" to-day.

From Egypt, he sent to Russia the second and third groups of the SS fighter fleet and the second group of the 77th bombing fleet.—Reuter.

Our Delhi correspondent points out that Sir T. E. Gregory, India's (sic) Economic Adviser, has been given extension of his term despite the Central Assembly's Censure.

Quite right. What else is the Central Assembly except to be ignored?

Now we know why the British War Cabinet has not yet decided upon launching a second front. How could it possibly take such a tremendous decision by itself?

Why the reason did not occur to us is entirely our fault. And we are, therefore, all the more grateful to be reminded by a New Delhi message that Sir A. Ramaswamy Nadarajah and the Jam Sahib of Nawangan are now shortly to leave for London to join the War Cabinet.

The Honourable Sjt. M. S. Aney holds it as his "firm belief" that the Congress and the League committed a mistake in rejecting the Cripps proposal.

Well, can he, Sjt. Aney, do less?

An ex-American diplomat has indignantly shouted at one of his country's microphones "Hindus, who keep their forty million untouchables in worse than slavery, will appeal here in vain for our interference in Mr. Gandhi's backstabbing campaign."

That prominent Hindu, Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, now mustn't. By the way, if some Indian, sorry, Hindu mentioned Negroes, perhaps that would be regarded as an unpardonably impertinent interference in the affairs of the world's greatest free democracy.

Replying to a question in the Commons, Deputy-Premier Attlee declared that there existed between Britain and America "a large measure of agreement" on "the fundamental principles of the main objects" regarding war and peace aims.

Or, in simple and brief language, the agreement in views is not complete.

A Swiss report says that Berlin spokesmen who previously ridiculed the idea of a second front, now consider it a serious possibility.

But it's quite all right. To restore the status quo as it were, British spokesmen now ridicule the idea.

In the Egyptian front fighting on Sunday night and Monday the Eighth Army is reported to have inflicted heavier losses on the Axis forces than it suffered itself.

And then it very kindly allowed the enemy another spell of rest.

R. A. F. bombers who attacked Hamburg twice in three nights were over Saarbrücken on the fourth.

It looks as if Air Marshal Harris is getting serious.

A Wilhelmstrasse spokesman has again warned Sweden.

And we again decline to attach any hopeful importance to the incident.

The conceited colonel was complaining about his subordinate officers.

"I'm obliged to do everything myself," he grumbled. "I'm my own captain, my own lieutenant, even my own sergeant-major."

"Trumpeter, too!" muttered the junior subaltern.

FURTHER SELLING IN N. Y. COTTON MARKET

CROP PROSPECTS FAVOURABLE

Bombay, July 30. On Wednesday, the New York cotton market opened steady but later prices declined on further selling after early mill price fixing prices sagged on hedging nervous liquidation and New Orleans cotton prices declined over Washington encountered measure scale down support.

The market opened at a rise of 6 points with December 18.44. There was some support and October advanced to 18.41 which was the highest level. Thereafter there was increased selling and October declined to 18.30. The market finally closed at a net decline of 14 to 15 points. Spot cotton prices were reduced 14 points at 18.35 per lb.

The New Orleans cotton futures market was quiet on increased selling and closed at a decline of 12 to 14 points. Spot cotton prices closed 13 points lower at 18.35 per lb.

LOCAL SITUATION
Messrs. Andall Potar and Co. state—
On Wednesday, cotton opened steady and after a timid support, prices sharply fell to the lowest level since the beginning of confidence stimulated no holding capacity with few buyers. There were sales tenders in Bombay. Sales also continued weak. Silver and gold were featureless. Grain and oil were featureless. A faded note the better than other markets.

Summing up some evaluation of the market, it is believed that the market is expected to be a L. C. C. at Bombay is thought to be a far more conclusion. BOMBAY COTTON

Bombay, July 30. Following a decline of 14 points in New York cotton futures, the market advanced to Rs. 332 1/2 for L.C.C. January and advanced to Rs. 334 1/2 for L.C.C. January. At this level, some professional came out as sellers and prices declined to Rs. 329 1/2 but renewed support from the local market opened at Rs. 330 1/2 and declined. The local market is well liquidated and it is entitled to a reaction. The recent decline of Rs. 43 in a straight was an usual feature.

Thereafter there was scattered business on both sides and prices after advancing to Rs. 333 1/2 declined to Rs. 329 1/2 and rallied to Rs. 330 1/2. The market finally closed at Rs. 330 1/2 as under—

The local market was quietly steady with a restricted trading. There is less disposition to operate pending political developments. Thus price changes were narrow and the market is likely to be quiet. Tata Steel

FOOD COUNCIL FOR CITY

Corporation Plan To Solve Scarcity: Representation To Govt.

That in view of the increasing hardships caused to the general public on account of the difficulty of obtaining foodstuffs and other necessities of life His Worship the Mayor be requested to represent to Government the immediate necessity and desirability of appointing a special body of official and non-official experts to be called the Food Council consisting of the representatives of Government, Municipality and the commercial interests to effectively handle the problem of the supply and distribution of foodstuffs and other essential commodities for the City of Bombay, to get representatives of non-official organizations having vital interests in the food problem actively associated with this effort and to undertake such other measures as may be found necessary to meet any emergency with confidence and bring relief to the vast body of consumers in the City.

The Special Meeting of the Municipal Corporation on Thursday passed a resolution to represent to the Government for the appointment of an official and non-official Food Council to meet the emergency caused by war situation.

Mr. S. K. Patil moved: Mr. Patil said though Government were doing praiseworthy efforts to meet the situation, there were several factors which came in their way such as: (1) Stoppage of imports of essential commodities such as rice, kerosene oil, etc. (2) Difficulty of transport, (3) un-scientific distribution of products and (4) human nature which required satisfying the wants. Government had appointed a Price Control Committee, but he said, it had neither initiative, nor direction and therefore, was incapable of rendering any assistance to the city. Then there was the Consumers' Committee; but it was tinkering with small things. In case of difficulties, Government appointed Controllers, so Kerosene oil was controlled and wheat, sugar, and rice were controlled. But the Controllers were not capable of solving the difficulties of the consumers and in case of emergency he was afraid the Controllers would be of no real assistance to the city. The Municipal Corporation had 117 councillors returned by 3 lakh votes and therefore, they were the real representatives to represent the city and solve the difficulties of the citizens.

Mr. A. P. Sabawala seconded the resolution. Mr. M. N. Talpade moved an amendment to appoint a committee of representatives of grain dealers, grain merchants and food merchants. Mr. Talpade said there was a tendency among Congressmen to sit with officials so that when they court jails, they may get second class and first class only. (Laughter.)

Mr. R. A. Gole supported the proposition. Mr. Ratilal Gandhi and Mr. Khimji Bhupuriah further supported the proposition.

Mr. Navahar Bhargava opposed the resolution and characterised it as a political stunt.

Mr. Mirza Akhtar Hassan wanted to know how the Food Council would solve the transport problem. Mr. M. V. Dondé moved another amendment to appoint on the Food Council only the Mayor, to represent the Municipal Corporation, the representatives of the Corporation, the commercial interests and labour organisations.

Mr. D. V. Pradhan seconded the amendment. Mr. Asok Mehta also supported the proposition and said the Food Council should insist upon the Government to give better facilities of transport. The amendments being put to vote were thrown out and the original proposition was carried.

The House then adjourned till Monday.

Rais, M.L.A. writes that he has absolutely no connection with the case.

SWEDEN ASKED TO SELECT SIDE!

STOCKHOLM, July 30.

A Wilhelmstrasse spokesman during Wednesday's press conference, gave a sharp warning to Sweden in connection with a recent article in "Goeteborgs Bandlestimmigen" saying that if Sweden was to abandon neutrality, it should be careful to "pick up the right side". The spokesman said: "It was thought opportune that Berlin should warn Sweden not to let herself be dragged into political activity incompatible with neutral attitude." Berlin is interestedly following Swedish attitude towards Russia he added.—Reuter.

JAPS READY TO ATTACK VLADIVOSTOK

CHUNGKING, July 30.

Forty thousand Japanese troops are reported to have left Honan province last week for Tientsin en route to Manchuria.

A Chinese spokesman said on Wednesday that since May there has been a continuous movement of Japanese troops northward along the Tientsin-Pukow Railway, bringing troops to points outside the Great Wall.

Japanese aircraft which participated in the recent Chekiang campaign are reported to have left Hangchow airfield a month ago for Mukden.

Chinese reports indicate that Japan has 22 divisions in Manchuria, two in Korea and two which have been sent up from the South. The Japanese are reported to have approximately half a million men.

Wallace Beery and Lewis Stone in "The Bugle Sounds" at Metro.

"THE BUGLE SOUNDS" COMES TO METRO

A novel combination of factual army life and fictional adventure, with Wallace Beery as the star, will be seen in "The Bugle Sounds" at Metro.

The picture was filmed with the co-operation of the War Department, which permitted camera crews to accompany the regular troops out of Fort Knox Ky. in the war games in Louisiana, another unit went to Fort Lewis, Washington, and Beery himself made scenes at Fort Ord.

A logical drama of a leather-faced sergeant of cavalry has been woven into the action of the regular army. As a result, when Beery barks and grumbles at his platoon, he has the authentic support of roaring tanks and droning planes, together with thousands of regular army men who went under camera fire for the picture.

Appearing in the supporting cast are Marjorie Main, as the Sergeant's fiancée for 19 years of army raving, and Lewis Stone, the Judge Hardy of the screen, as colonel in command. Donna Reed is the appealing bride of a selective service soldier, portrayed by William Lundigan.

BHOPAL WAKF CASE

BHOPAL, July 29.

Arguments on preliminary issues in the Bhopal Wakf Case involving a claim of Rs. 11,00,000 by the State Controller of Religious and Charitable Trusts in connection with the General Obaidullah Khan Trust have been completed before the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Muhammad Ahmed Khan, Chief Justice of Bhopal.

Arguing on behalf of defendant No. 1 Hon'ble Chaudhri Niamatullah discussed points relating to the court's jurisdiction and applicability of Section 92 of the Specific Relief Act and Section 92 of the Civil Procedure Code.

Mr. M. A. Jinnah maintained that the place of suing for movable property was regulated by Section 20 of the Code of Civil Procedure with the sole exception of property under attachment. As regards Section 92 of the Specific Relief Act Mr. Jinnah argued that its provisions were not exhaustive and did not cover all declaratory suits and that it was not necessary in every case that the plaintiff must show a right to property in order to get relief.

So far as the nature of the suit was concerned Mr. Jinnah argued that no further relief could possibly be claimed by the client. Concluding his arguments which lasted nearly two days Mr. Jinnah referred to a Privy Council ruling of the year 1928, etc. A. P.

"NO GREATER SIN" AT NEW EMPIRE

(By T. V. P.)

The management of the New Empire Cinema will release from to-day a highly educative film that no responsible citizen of Bombay particularly those interested in social welfare and health problems of the community should miss.

The management showed an admirable sense of social duty and responsibility by inviting quite a large gathering of doctors, nurses, social workers and others for a preview of this picture on Wednesday morning. Mr. Yusuf Meherally, the Mayor of Bombay was also present.

I understand, the young socialist Mayor is speaking to-night at Green's on "Bombay of Yesterday and To-morrow." I feel certain that this film will be fresh in his mind for making an appropriate reference to it as he develops his theme.

This film, "No Greater Sin" is very suggestive and efficacious propaganda in favour of the eradication of syphilis from the midst of human society. It is the story of a doctor who fights a whole city to conquer the vice conditions obtaining almost in any packed industrial area. With the help of a good dialogue and development of plot, it is sought to be impressed on the audience that secrecy, hush-hush and deliberate blindness obtaining in society to keep up so-called respectability towards present day communities afflicted by this scourge constitute a sin and that there is no greater sin than this.

Some years ago, I saw a film called "Damaged Goods" which had a similar theme, but it would seem that the current film will be found more enduring as an educative film. It is more dramatic, it presented than another such film we saw some weeks ago, viz., "The Birth of a Baby." "No Greater Sin" concerns a health commissioner, a girl reporter on a newspaper, a young couple and the manner in which each one is affected by the dread disease and their efforts to combat it, and its social content is of inestimable value.

"THE BIG STORE" AT PALACE.

Those Madcap Marx Brothers, Hollywood's ace laugh producers, will be seen again at Palace this week in "The Big Store". This new M-G-M musical funfest marks the eleventh picture in eleven years of stardom for the Marxes.

During the extra morning show on this Sunday, The Palace will exhibit "The Merry Widow" starring Jeanette MacDonald and Maurice Chevalier.

"MICHAEL STROGOFF" AT OPERA HOUSE

On Sunday at 10 a.m. Opera House will screen "Michael Strogoff" starring Anton Walbrook as the dashing courier of the Czar, fighting his way, through hordes of barbaric Tartars and a woman spy with dangerous scarlet lips, on to his crimson goal. In the cast of thousands is also Akim Tamiroff. Admission prices will be at half rates.

"SON OF FURY" AT REGAL FOR THIRD WEEK

With practically every house a packed house even during its second week, "Son of Fury," the story of Benjamin Blake, which is being held over for a third week at the Regal is the fiery, action-packed story of a man who battles the world for his birth-right. Starring Tyrone Power in the roaring title role, the filmization of Edison Marshall's best-seller "Benjamin Blake" contains the adventures of ten lifetimes-replete with hasty fights, adventure and tempestuous romance under a South Island moon.

Launa Walters and Adele Pearce in "Joan of Paris" at New Empire.

"JOAN OF PARIS" COMES TO EXCELSIOR

How five interred R.A.F. fliers manage to outwit the sinister Gestapo in present day France through the danger-fraught assistance of a lovely French girl, makes for thrilling action in RKO Radio's widely heralded "Joan of Paris" co-starring Michele Morgan and Paul Henreid.

When a Free French flyer and four members of his R.A.F. Squadron are shot down over Nazi-occupied France, their desperate efforts to hide out in Paris bring them in conflict with the dread Gestapo.

Concealing his four comrades in the ancient sewers of Paris, the Free Frenchman risks his life to contact a British Intelligence Agent. Aiding him in his perilous mission is a pretty barmaid, Joan, and before long a warm romance develops between the pair in the shadow of menace and terror.

And like her patron Saint, Joan of Arc, another French martyr, the little Parisian girl pays the supreme sacrifice so that her lover and his friends may live to return and liberate her beloved country.

"HONKY-TONK" AT CAPITOL. Clark Gable and Lana Turner are teamed for the first time in "Honky-Tonk."

The swift-moving story of gunplay, Gable's battle for political power, and the highly unconventional love story leaves an emotional impact.

Gable is reminiscent of his finest previous roles, especially those in "Gone with the Wind" and "Boom Town." His part is that of a shrewd manipulator of card games with keen political aspirations and a mordant, biting sense of humour.

Miss Turner, whom Hollywood has labelled "glamour girl of 1941", has the most exciting dramatic part she has yet played on the screen.

"THIEF OF BAGDAD" STAYS ON AT NOVELTY.

As was to be expected, Alexander Korda's spectacular film "The Thief of Bagdad" produced in magic technicolour has proved so popular at Novelty that it has been extended for another week. It is an Arabian Nights story starring Sabu.

SUNDAY SHOW AT CAPITOL. "Goodbye Mr. Chips" starring Robert Donat, will be shown at Capitol on Sunday at 10-30 a.m.

SUNDAY SHOW AT REGAL. "Sing Baby Sing" will be shown at 10-30 a.m. at Regal on Sunday.

SUNDAY SHOW AT METRO. On Sunday August 2, at 10 a.m. Vivien Leigh and Robert Taylor in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture "Waterloo Bridge."

Food During MALARIAL ATTACKS

One of the greatest difficulties in cases of Malaria is maintaining the patient's strength. Acutely ill, he does not desire solid food. And, at the same time, he is being rapidly exhausted by the attack of fever poisons on nerve and muscle tissues. Doctors, however, have found Horlicks a solution to this problem. Horlicks is 100 per cent nourishment, yet can be digested without the least strain upon the digestive organs. It quickly restores vitality, rebuilds wasted tissues and reinforces the patient's strength and ability to stand the strain of fever. In all cases of feverish illness a supply of Horlicks should be kept always at hand.
